U. S. Drive to Orbit Man Gets a Big Boost

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — America's drive to hurl a U.S. astronaut into orbit by the end of the year has received vigorous impetus from the successful recovery of a Mercury space capsule after it circled the globe.

But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration intends to rocket one more capsule into orbit, perhaps with a chimpanzee passenger, before risking a human life on the journey into space.

An Atlas missile propelled a two-ton capsule carrying a mechanical man into a 17,519-mile-an-hour sweep around the earth Wednesday. Braking rockets sent the spacecraft out of orbit and it parachuted safely into the Atlantic Ocean 161 miles east of Bermuda after a 109-minute trip. The destroyer USS Decatur retrieved it.

A few minor electronic difficulties cropped up on the flight, including a faulty electrical inverter, a possible leak in the oxygen supply system and loss of contact with the robot spaceman's tape-recorder "voice" halfway through the test.

Robert Gilruth, Project Mercury director, reported three failings alone would not necessitate another preliminary shot before man is sent aloft.

"We'll have to look at the capsule and into the problems to see if they were serious," Gilruth said. "But we feel that no matter what we find, we want to fly a capsule with a quick-release escape hatch once more before putting a man in orbit."

NASA Administrator James E. Webb said in Washington there definitely will be one more unmanned orbital flight before an attempt is made to orbit a human pilot. He said this would come in six to eight weeks.

Frances Jane Coming Home

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Frances Jane Anderson, Miss Arkansas of 1962, who placed second in the Miss America pageant last Saturday night, comes home today.

Her plane arrives this afternoon at Little Rock's Adams Field, where Gov. Orval E. Faubus was to participate in ceremonies.

Then the schedule called for her to fly to her home town of Pine Bluff for another welcoming ceremony and a parade.

Miss Anderson is accompanied by her chaperone, Mrs. Tom Allen of Brinkley, and Bill Muncie of Hot Springs, director of the Miss Arkansas pageant.

The 5-foot-9-inch blonde spent three days in New York after the pageant in Atlantic City, N.J.

Patman Has Praise for Barge Line

WASHINGTON (AP) — It'll be the biggest thing that's happened to northeast Texas since the coming of the railroad, says Rep. Wright Patman.

That's what he thinks about the jet-propelled barge service that's expected to be moving up the Mississippi and Red Rivers to Denison before too long.

The Interstate Commerce Commission recently granted a permit to Heart of Texas Transportation Co., Fort Worth, to operate the new type barge service.

Within a few weeks, says Patman, veteran Texas Congressman, the first of the new-type river craft should be in operation.

The barge will virtually skim over the surface, enabling it to go up shallow river beds, spewing out a stream of water that is expected to wash aside mud and sand and actually deepen and improve the navigation channel with each passage.

Just the thing, says Patman, for a river bottom like the Red.

Police Car Set Afire, Burned

BRADFORD, Ark. (AP) — Police Chief George Libby said today that a police car had been set afire and burned—the second such incident in five months in this White County town.

Libby said that in the latest incident, last weekend, the automobile was parked by the city hall when someone apparently threw gasoline into the front seat and ignited it.

The previous time a car was parked in front of Libby's house. It was set afire in a similar manner.

Libby said the car was a total loss each time. "The chief said he didn't know who might have been responsible to high 60s northeast, in the 60s or 70s elsewhere."

Legislature Meet Monday Is Expected

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill to enlarge the membership of the national House apparently has died in committee in Washington, and Gov. Orval E. Faubus is expected to call the Arkansas Legislature into special session next Monday to deal with congressional redistricting.

Faubus has held off calling the special session, hoping for success of a move to expand the House membership and allow Arkansas five congressmen instead of four.

But Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., said after a closed meeting of the House Judiciary Subcommittee Wednesday that the group voted to postpone indefinitely all bills relating to enlargement of the House.

There was a report that House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., had reluctantly agreed to an increase of 18. But since nothing happened in the subcommittee meeting Wednesday, Washington observers said the last chance to revive any bill appeared to have gone down the drain.

The subcommittee previously had approved a bill to increase membership by three, but the full committee rejected it. Committee chairman Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said Tuesday that all enlargement bills were dead for this session.

Sixteen states will lose seats because of population losses. Arkansas will lose two of its six congressmen. The legislature passed a redistricting act in its regular session last winter setting up four congressional districts.

But three southeast Arkansas counties—Lincoln, Jefferson and Arkansas—objected to the plan because they were put in the north-east district instead of the southern. They instituted a petition campaign which got the act referred to the people on the November 1962, general election ballot.

If nothing is done before then, candidates for Congress will have to run at large in that election.

But a compromise apparently has been worked out in which Tri-County would go to the north central district and Jefferson and Lincoln would go to the southern district.

If the legislature passed a new redistricting act embodying the compromise, the problem of an at-large race would be avoided. Faubus had tentatively set next Monday as the date for the session, but delayed issuing a call because of the possible action in Washington. He said he will include several other items in his call to the legislators.

The special session is expected to last only a few days.

Details Unfold in Hurricane Ravaged Area

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Fresh details of death and destruction from killer Hurricane Carla unfolded in the ravaged Gulf Coast sector today, and weather violence from the departed storm widened more than 1,000 miles northward into the Midwest.

Bodies of eight persons — all members of the same family — were discovered Wednesday night at inundated Freeport, one of the hardest hit among cities suffering multimillion-dollar losses along 250 miles of Texas and western Louisiana shore line.

The death toll, which could mount still higher, climbed to 31 in three states—21 lives in Texas and five each in Louisiana and Kansas.

Rains up to 8 inches sent flood waters rising in Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin. Flooding continued in South Texas, doused by post-Clara downpours up to nearly 10 inches.

Vicious winds, another hurricane after-effect, smashed at scattered points from Texas' southern tip through Missouri and into Michigan.

As these echoes from the massive tropical storm continued, National Guardsmen, public officials and a horde of refugees trudged through mud and debris on what promised to be a long and wearying struggle back to normalcy in coastal areas.

Public health threats caused widespread concern. Water supplies were contaminated in dozens of towns and cities.

Typhoid shots were being given to tens of thousands returning to devastated areas. At Houston's Municipal Auditorium, still filled with evacuees, doctors found 14 cases of measles.

Officials feared there would be more grim discoveries like that at Freeport, 40 miles from Galveston, where exhausted Robert Dunn, 15, may be the only survivor of a 12-member family group.

The youth saw a giant wave sweep away his parents, an uncle and aunt, and six children. Robert survived by clinging to the roof of his home.

Bodies of the father, R. W. Dunn, 52; Robert's uncle, Joseph J. Drvar, 54, and six children were recovered in a muddy bayou. Wives of the two men and another youth were missing.

A mountainous wave came rolling in, Robert said, as his family huddled in the attack of his home. "We all started trying to get on the roof," the youth related.

U. S. Appeals for End to GM Strike

By A. F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP) — The federal government renewed pressure today to get snagged contract negotiations between General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union moving toward a final agreement.

A direct appeal to both parties from President Kennedy was read by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg on a national television program.

The President's statement said both parties have problems, but they also have "an obligation to the country to settle these local differences quickly and expeditiously."

The message said Kennedy hopes that "by this weekend the problems between GM and the union can be resolved and the plants put back in full operation" by Monday. It added: "So let's get on with the job and finish it."

Any hope of GM getting back into high-gear production of 1962 cars before next week is gone, despite the fact that five more plant-level settlements were completed overnight, bringing to 53 the number of local agreements worked out with striking UAW locals. Some 90-plus GM plants have been idled since Monday, chiefly because of bargaining breakdowns at the local level.

State Poultry Men Against U. S. Controls

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas poultry leaders today turned down a proposal for an industry-wide marketing order to control production.

Members of the Executive Committee of the Arkansas Poultry Federation rejected "any form of government control," said Lex Killbrow, the federation's executive secretary.

He said the members did not vote specifically on a proposal drafted at a meeting in Atlanta Tuesday because a plan has not been set yet.

But he said committee members "can't see at this time where government intervention would be of any assistance." This, he said, would include a proposal for a marketing order as a device to limit production and thus increase poultry prices.

Killbrow and Joe Ray of Danville, a former federation president, attended the Atlanta meeting, but Killbrow said they did not give their approval to the proposal drafted there. Georgia officials had quoted them as approving the idea.

The Atlanta proposal called for a quota system with the quotas to be regulated by the industry but with the program to be administered and enforced by the U.S. Agriculture Department.

It would differ from government regulation of other crops, such as cotton, in that the industry and not the government would set the production limits. Killbrow said.

Killbrow said that Arkansas already has started a program of voluntary reduction in broiler production. If other states would adopt such programs, he said, there would be no over production problem in the industry "and the price of broilers would be back up around 18 cents where it should be."

Prices for Arkansas broilers last week ranged from 9 to 12 cents a pound, Killbrow said, however, this did not present a true picture of the market since it did not reflect how many broilers were sold at various prices.

The federation recently had the reporting of broiler purchases and prices changed to a weekly report instead of a daily report. The weekly report eliminates the percentage of sales at each price within the overall range.

Killbrow said the federation also favors expansion of a federal program to buy poultry for the school lunch program and expanded efforts to increase private consumption of poultry.

Firemen Trained to Rescue

More than 100 firefighters from Hope and nine neighboring towns are taking part in the testing of rescue skills and techniques developed in an intensive training course which has been going on nightly at the Hope Fire Station.

Purpose of the school, Fire Chief Ray Yocom said today, is to more fully develop preparedness on the part of firemen to save lives in the event of any disaster in this area.

"Emphasis has been on the lowering of injured victims trapped on upper floors of burning buildings or from buildings which may have been partially demolished by windstorms, explosions, etc.," Chief Yocom said.

The course was under the direction of state fire instructors Will Murphy and W. A. Turner of the State Education Department.

In addition to Hope other towns participating in the training exercises include: Prescott, Emmet, Gurdon, Nashville, Mineral Springs, Murfreesboro, Delight, Lockesburg and Texarkana.

Clergymen in Freedom Ride Land in Jail

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi authorities jailed the Rev. Robert L. Pierson—son-in-law of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller—and 14 other white and Negro Episcopal priests Wednesday following their attempt to desegregate a Jackson bus terminal.

The 15 priests—12 whites and three Negroes—entered the bus terminal's white waiting room. Two patrolmen ordered them out. They refused to move.

Police Capt. J. L. Ray, who has handled most of the more than 300 "Freedom Rider" arrests in this Mississippi capital city was summoned. He ordered the arrest of the priests on breach of peace charges after they again refused to move on.

Trial for the clergymen was set for 3 p.m. today.

The 15 were participating in a "Prayer Pilgrimage" which left New Orleans Tuesday and proceeded without incident until they reached Jackson. Twenty-three white and five Negro Episcopal priests started the pilgrimage.

It was the first arrest for Pierson, 35, of New York City and Evanston, Ill. His wife is Ann Rockefeller, one of the New York governor's five children.

After a meal in jail of cornbread, peas and meat, the minister said that police had been polite and that the treatment was satisfactory.

He said he had no plans to get out of jail but hoped that "churches" around the nation will be concerned enough to come to our help."

"I admire all of them," Rockefeller said in Rochester, N.Y.

"I admire the courage and dedication of these young people to the basic precepts on which this country was founded and their dedication to the cause of making a reality out of these precepts."

The New York governor, asked if he planned to intercede, replied, "I know he wouldn't expect any special treatment or want it."

The ministers, who had spent Monday night at a Negro YMCA in New Orleans, traveled by chartered bus to Jackson where they stayed overnight at nearby Tougaloo Southern Christian College, a Negro school.

Those arrested had tickets for Chattanooga, Tenn., where they had planned to visit the church's University of The South at near-by Sewanee.

Seven of the ministers, including one Negro, flew to Atlanta, Ga., Wednesday night with plans to be in Sewanee today.

The others were expected to stay in Jackson until the arrested ministers were out of jail.

Denies a Move for Dismissal

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — U.S. District Judge Herbert W. Christensen denied a motion by once-deported Carlos Marcello's attorneys Wednesday that the Jefferson Parish rackets figure's indictment for illegally re-entering the United States be dismissed.

Marcello's attorneys argued that their client "couldn't have reentered the United States illegally legally."

U.S. Immigration Service agents whisked the 51-year-old Marcello out of New Orleans last April 4 and flew him to Guatemala. That Central American nation later deported him and in early May Marcello slipped back into the United States.

Nuclear Tests to Start in a Few Days

By C. YATES McDANIEL
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is expected to resume underground nuclear testing within a week or 10 days.
This became known today as the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee called a closed session to go over plans for the new American series and to hear a top secret analysis of the nine Soviet blasts since Sept. 1. The two latest shots came Wednesday.
Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., chairman of the Senate-Atomic Energy Commission and Defense Department experts are "working night and day" to get the American tests under way.
Holifield said that the experiments will start with a number of underground blasts of relatively low yield.
The joint committee will get its secret briefing from Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Maj. Gen. F. J. Rodenhauer, representing the Defense Department unit that will handle the military phases of the Nevada test series.
Various explanations have been advanced for the wide range of power yield detected from the nine Soviet blasts. Wednesday's shots were reported by the AEC as being in the low to intermediate range.
In nuclear terminology, low range could mean a force comparable to the American atomic bombs that blasted Hiroshima and Nagasaki. They had the explosive equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT.
Some shots in the new Soviet series have exceeded the 1-million-ton range. Some scientists have suggested the Soviets are testing trigger devices for a superbomb that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has said he will build with the punch of 100 million tons of TNT.
The United States earlier perfected a variety of 1-million-ton equivalent bombs for delivery by B52 strategic aircraft.
The Public Health Service reversed itself Wednesday night and said there had been a mistake earlier in the day when it reported an abrupt increase in atmospheric radiation detected by its fallout station in Phoenix, Ariz.
A spokesman said the corrected reading for Tuesday was "more comparable to figures earlier in the month." However, the health service stressed that even the mistaken higher reading was not high enough to pose a health threat.

Chapter XXII

Ben Tarrant was absent from the Mountaineer Motel, so Finegan delivered to Mrs. Tarrant's keeping, to wit, one Xavier, who was to work there and Eddie Martin and Francis Fox, who were to stay there at the chamber's expense until other arrangements could be made.
"I don't know what Tarrant has in mind. I'd like to think he was going to have you burn wheels, but that's too much to hope for," a gleam entered Xavier's eye.
"You mean you don't like your wheels?"
"Tarrant's wheels, not mine!" Mrs. Tarrant sighed. "Well, if it wasn't wheels, it would be something else, like old bottles."
"What would you like to have him collect?" Xavier asked innocently.
"Money."
Tarrant returned sometime later with two fine examples of Mulligan County Buckboard, slightly rotten from resting against an abandoned manure pile for some 40 years.
Xavier was waiting in ambush, while Eddie and Francis, who had seen the gleam in his eye, lay on their beds wondering how long it would be before all three of them got pitched out on the highway.
"By gosh, you do look like an Indian!" Tarrant said, on meeting Xavier.
"I keep trying," the youth said modestly.
"I told Finnegan what I wanted and I see he didn't forget."
"I sort of picked you," Xavier said. "I noticed the wheels when we drove into town."
"Oh!" Tarrant beamed. "You like wheels, huh?"
"I do have an interest in them beyond average, I suppose. I used to know an old wheelwright who—"
"I've got 647, last count. No make that 649 now. I've got wheels from everything that ever rolled. The trouble is, I don't know what went where."
Xavier turned and ran his hand over the tire of a sound wheel. "This is a fair one. Army ambulance, 1871—maybe 1873."
"Huh?"
"See the double taper in the spokes? That doesn't clinch it, but notice the rolled edge of the tire and the soft coal weld."
"How about that?" Tarrant cried.
Xavier went down the drive, disjoining a dozen run of the mill creations. He came to a pair of high wheels that showed flakes of red paint. "Barlow Sanderson line. Rear, of course. Homsheer Carriage Works, Cincinnati, 1879. Notice how the felines are beveled? Wonderful handicraft."
"They sure are," said Tarrant, with his knowledge of wheels, and in truth, nearly stupefied himself. He hoped he could remember what he had been saying. To that end he restricted himself to finding only eight wheels with outstanding lineage.
"You mean that's all?"
"Oh, they're not junk, Mr. Tarrant. Not mint items, but hardly junk. People who want wheels

All That Happens Only Temporary

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—This is for people getting ready to sigh with relief.
Both President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev said Wednesday in a vague way, their governments are ready to talk about Berlin. And maybe they will, after enough talking about talking to wear out a fishwife.
Perhaps there'll even be a summit conference, Berlin may be settled without shooting, Kennedy may visit Russia and get the grand treatment and the world may be so rosy it will look sun-burned.
And if all that happens it will only be temporary.
Kennedy must have thought so himself, before he ever got into this present predicament, since he said on the day he took office that our problems will perhaps not be settled in our lifetime.
And if you have any doubts about it you should read the interview Khrushchev gave C. L. Sulzberger of the New York Times last week, particularly when Sulzberger asked his views on wars of liberation.
The Russian's answer was a masterpiece in the upside-down philosophy of communism which can justify beforehand any way the cat jumps, and afterward, too: "We do not recognize that any country has a right to fight a war for the liberation of another country. The imperialists and colonialists alone fight wars under the false banner of liberating other peoples."
Does this mean the Russians would never get mixed up in a war of liberation? Oh, no. Khrushchev took care of that:
"When people within a country fight for liberation Russian sympathies are with them and 'we consider that they have the rights to count on the help of all freedom-loving people.'"
By this reasoning it would have been very wrong for the United States in 1956 to help the Hungarian rebels when they tried to throw off their Communist masters.
But by the same reasoning it was very right for the Russians to move into the supposedly independent Hungary and crush the rebels to preserve communism, which they did.
How could this be? Very simple. Khrushchev explained at the time that the rebels weren't fighting for liberation from communism but the reactionary stooges of the West which put them up to trying to overthrow their legitimate government.
So it follows it was wrong for the United States to help Cuban exiles in 1961 invade Cuba to try to overthrow pro-Russian Fidel Castro but it was very right for Russia in 1961 to help the Communist-led Laotian rebels try to overthrow their pro-Western government.
None of this might have any present significance if it were not that Khrushchev's explanation to Sulzberger justifies beforehand anything Russia may do in the future.
What it can do in the future is instigate Communist led revolts from inside a country in Asia, the Middle East or elsewhere—and then in one way or another help the rebels on the grounds they were fighting for liberation.
In the years ahead it's unthinkable, knowing communism's self-proclaimed expansionist aims, it will not be fomenting revolt in which it can join, particularly in nearby countries linked with the West.
And this should be particularly true in the case of countries allowing their territory to be used as military bases of one kind or another which could be used in case of a war between the United States and Russia.
Iran, for example, looks like an excellent place for just such a Soviet effort. It's pro-Western, there is an enormous gap between the don't know or care where they came from. They just want something round to paint white and stick in their yard."

"But I don't want people to have any of my wheels."
"Of course not, but as a discriminating collector you do want to know what you have that's good, don't you?"
"Sure," Tarrant was disturbed. Being a mass collector was more fun than being a discriminating collector. That is, it had been, up until now. He eyed Xavier doubtfully. "You're sure you know what you're talking about?"
Xavier shrugged. "It's what I learned from an old wheelwright near the reservation." The old wheelwright had been Horsecollar, who one day took four wobbly wheels of a light spring wagon and set up shop on the main highway near the reservation.
He was unaware of all the cartoons about tourists who know that everything held for sale was made in fall River, Mass. Apparently the tourists were also unaware, for they bought, at ten bucks a head, all the wheels from the historic wagon which had played such an important part in the Battle of Bull Head Springs.
In his innocence, Xavier had asked afterward, "Where's Bull Head Springs?"
"Who knows?" said Horsecollar venerable wheelwright.
"I sure thought I had more good stuff around than just eight wheels," Tarrant said, with the air of a boy geologist who had just learned that his priceless mineral collection is mostly country rock. Then he brightened. "Hey, I've got a lot more wheels in the basement. Come on."
"It's pretty hard to tell about them if they're all stacked up in a pile."
"We'll haul 'em out of there. Get the other two boys."
And thus Mrs. Tarrant saw her basement again that afternoon, considerably strewn with fragments of eroded wood and other debris common to wheels. Sure enough, the washer-dryer that she no longer needed was still there.

Practically All Homes Have TV Sets

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—While you and I have been swinging in our very rich and the very poor.
And in all fairness it's hard to believe the U.S. government would for a moment stop trying to overthrow, in one way or another, any government in this hemisphere which was Communist or pro-Communist.
A thousand years from now, some philosopher taking the long view may conclude that from an evolutionary standpoint all this conflict between East and West was a good thing.
It's a good guess that for years to come this will be a very spicy planet, and even longer than that since in a thousand years this planet, or what's left of it, may be up to its neck in conflicts with other planets.

hammocks, the indomitable pollsters and survey takers have been querying their way through the long hot summer.
Inspecting a two-month accumulation of mail that piled up during a vacation followed by a working visit to Hollywood, I find there are statistics available to prove that:
Nine out of 10 American households have television sets, and now there are more homes with TV sets than there are homes without any. One of eight homes, in fact, are "multiset households," a situation which will cause the nose-counters trouble as the number increases.
TV "specials" on an average receive lower audience ratings than regularly scheduled programs but only because that average is dragged down by less popular news and documentary specials. If only entertainment specials are counted, the ratings are slightly higher than regularly scheduled shows. Most popular specials are variety shows—comedy and music—followed by dramatic programs.
ABC's first musical variety special of the new season Wednesday night, "The Connie Francis Show" started things off in bright bouncy fashion.
The hour even had a theme—sounds, ranging from a cat's snarl at Art Carney to a piano solo by Tab Hunter. It was an amusing device for a light-hearted, unpretentious show (and will be used again later this season for a more ambitious NBC blockbuster, "The Sound of The 60s.")
Connie Francis, the pretty young singer whose records, are bought by teen-agers by the zillions, was officially the top attraction of the show. She really didn't do much except sing and smile while her records were plugged. It was the talented Carney and endearing song and dance man Eddie Foy who provided the fun and the spice.
Senator Critical
PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Former U.S. Sen. Theodore Francis Green, 93, was described as fairly comfortable at Jane Brown Hospital today although a spokesman said his condition remains critical.
Green is suffering from a heart block discovered Friday when he entered the hospital for a check.

Miss Martha Anne Elam

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Elam of Hope announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Martha Anne, to Ray Don Boston of England, Ark.

The bride elect is a graduate of Ouachita College and is now teaching in the elementary school at Bismark, Ark. The groom-elect, a junior at Ouachita Baptist College, is pastor of Belton Baptist church, near Nashville, and Hicks Baptist church at Ashdown.

The wedding will be an event of November 22 at the Second Baptist church at Little Rock with Rev. Dale Cowling performing the ceremony.

Refreshments were served to the 12 members present.

Garland School P. T. A. Meets

The Garland School P. T. A. met Wednesday, Sept. 13 at 3:00 p.m. in the school auditorium. Mrs. B. W. Edwards, president, presided and opened the meeting with prayer repeated in unison. Mrs. Ed Ogran sang two vocal selections. The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting and the budget chairman, Mrs. Duffie Booth, presented the budget for 1961-62.

The teachers, officers, and committee cheerleaders, were introduced. Mrs. Ernest Graham, State Health and Safety chairman for Home Demonstration Clubs, was guest speaker. She reported that Hempstead County was the first county in the state to require drivers test for school bus drivers. Mrs. Jines won the room count.

A social hour concluded the meeting.

Builders S. S. Class Meets

The regular monthly business and social meeting of the Builders' Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church was held on Tuesday evening, Sept. 12, at the home of Mrs. Leonard Ellis with Mrs. Ray Allen as associate hostess.

Arrangements of roses and cape jasmine were used in the entertaining rooms.

The class president, Mrs. Ben Owen, was in charge of the business period. Reports from the past month's work were given by the class officers. A discussion of the Standard of Excellence for Adult Classes was led by the president, and plans for attaining standard recognition in the new Sunday School year were made. "One Talent Christians" was the subject of a devotional message brought by Mrs. Charles Reynerson.

It was announced that the next meeting would be a covered dish supper in Fellowship Hall on October 10. A chain of prayers closed the business period. During the social hour refreshments of "home-made" ice cream and cake were served by the hostesses.

Local Bridge Club Meets

Mrs. Tom Wardlaw used roses, zinnias and celosia to decorate her home for the Tuesday Bridge Club meeting on Sept. 12.

Mrs. Wardlaw was high scorer for the afternoon and the game prize went to Mrs. C. C. Lewis.

A salad plate was served for refreshments.

Local Bridge Club Meets

A local Tuesday Bridge Club met with Mrs. George Newberry, Jr. on Sept. 12. When the tally was made Mrs. Lyle Brown was high scorer and Mrs. R. L. Broach was second.

Snacks and cold drinks were served during the afternoon.

Melrose Club Meets

The Melrose HD Club met Sept. 12 in the home of Mrs. A. C. Kirby with eight members present. The Eyeopener, given by Mrs. C. D. Hare, was "Now You See It, Now You Don't" pertaining to spots and stains to be removed from different kinds of fabric.

The devotion was given by the hostess, Mrs. Lyle Allen, followed with prayer. The roll call was answered with "My Biggest Sewing Problem," and the creed was voiced by Mrs. Allen.

Mrs. Mart Yocom discussed matching patterns with fabrics. The surprise package was won by Mrs. Virgil Huebner. An auction sale was held among the members to raise money for the treasury.

Sandwiches, cookies and drinks were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be Oct. 10 with Mrs. Sam Betts.

AE of PEO Holds Meeting

Yellow fall flowers were used to decorate the dining room of the Diamond Cafe on Tuesday, Sept. 12 at 7 p.m. when members of Chapter AE of PEO met for their first fall meeting.

There were 21 members and a former member, Mrs. Mildred Trotter of Tyler, Texas, who enjoyed the dinner. Mrs. E. P. O'Neal, chapter president, conducted the business meeting and heard committee reports.

Mrs. R. B. Moore, program and year book chairman, distributed new year books to the members.

Coming and Going

Mrs. John Hatley has returned home after being a patient in Wadley Hospital in Texarkana.

Mrs. J. W. Patterson, Mrs. C. D. Dickinson and Mrs. Roy Stephenson of the Hope B&PW Club went to Prescott Tuesday night for the 17th Birthday Anniversary celebration of the Prescott B&PW Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyatt and Family of Texarkana were dinner guests Tuesday night of George Frazier and Mrs. B. C. Hyatt.

Accidents in State Kills 3

Three persons were killed in separate traffic accidents on rain-slick Arkansas highways Tuesday.

Richard Nickles, 21, of near Gilham Sevier County, died in a two-car collision near Lockesburg. Mrs. Myrtle Fuller, 70, of Harrison died when the car in which she was riding struck a utility pole near Harrison, and Thomas Wayne Burton, 25, of Atkins died in the collision of two trucks at Morrilton.

Mrs. Fuller was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Sherman Fuller, 71, which State Trooper William Dearnmore said went out of control and struck a pole supporting a 13,000-volt power line.

The line was knocked down and electrical service in parts of northern Boone County was disrupted for several hours.

SHIRTS FOR SKIRTS—The American fashion scene is seeing a big change when a skirt is replaced by a long, long shirt. The flannelette muu muu, right, has hit the "at home wear" scene. Blazing red, green, gold and white stripes accent the tent effect. For lounging and sleeping is the beat-knit shirt, left. Finished with crew neck and push-up sleeves, it sports black, red, olive and blue stripes.

Urges U. S. to Speed Shelter Network

EDITOR'S NOTE: The notion that a really effective civil defense is possible against nuclear attack, a top atomic scientist says is dangerous nonsense. This second of three articles discusses the practical steps in protecting Americans against blast and fallout.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Edward Teller has grave respect for the aim of Soviet rockets bearing nuclear warheads.

"They are accurate," says the University of California physicist. They could hit assigned cities or military targets, unless anti-missiles or other defenses brought them down.

Warning systems promise to sound about 20 minutes advance notice—time enough for most people to take shelter.

But a few shelters exist. Dr. Teller strongly urges a huge national effort to build public and private shelters from city to hamlet.

With them, nine out of 10 citizens could survive, he declares. Without them, he fears, six or eight out of 10 will die.

The choice is that stark, in the eyes of the scientist whose genius contributed to fashioning the H-bomb.

Millions of people live in the fatalistic fear that if bombs fall, each will be directly underneath—or utterly doomed by radioactive winds and fallout.

Dr. Teller calls this dangerous nonsense.

Sketching basic essentials for shelters, he says many regions of the country would need only fallout shelters in basements for protection against radioactive clouds sweeping downwind from blasts.

The greatest danger would last only a few hours or a day, since radioactivity of the cloud declines rapidly with time and distance, he explains. Closed windows could keep out fallout radiation and make a sizeable difference. Fallout striking the ground or roof could be "hot" for longer periods.

Stores of water and food could carry millions through the time of real hazard.

Simple shelters could be made of wood or sandbags, or dug into the foundation, Dr. Willard Libby, former member of the Atomic Energy Commission, built such a home shelter for about $50.

A prime need everywhere, is for really cheap radiation detectors to judge hazards, and for battery-powered radios to hear official reports.

Suburban homes near big cities, on or near the fringes of blast areas, would need sturdier, more elaborate shelters to withstand shock and hotter radiation. Direct hits would wipe them out, but bombs won't fall everywhere like raindrops. Cheap but effective shelter designs are badly needed, Dr. Teller said.

For big cities and towns, mass shelters are the safest answer, with enough of them "so people could walk to them in five to ten minutes."

"Shelters should be sealable, with fire doors. If subways were used, as in New York City, fire doors could keep air from being sucked out of tunnels and stations. Subways could be equipped this way in a matter of months with enough effort."

Basements of big buildings could provide shelter for millions of city dwellers, and future buildings should be built "to take as much over-pressure as possible," Dr. Teller says.

"The idea that any shelter should be able to withstand 200 pounds pressure per square inch is simply not feasible—it is too expensive. We have to recognize there will be some casualties. The goal is to keep them to a minimum. To make all shelters 100 per cent safe would require all

Cool Air Is Pushed Into Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hurricane-spawned storms cooled Arkansas today.

The storms moved out of the state Wednesday night without causing any serious damage. Skies cleared today, but temperatures remained abnormally low.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said no records were set but that overnight lows ranging from the high 40s in northwest Arkansas to the low 60s elsewhere were unusual for this time of year.

A slow warming trend is indicated, with no rain forecast for a few days.

By mid-morning temperatures were in the mid 60s in the northwest section and had climbed only to the mid 60s elsewhere.

Most sections of the state were under severe weather alerts at times Wednesday, but no tornadoes or other serious storms were reported.

Soybean Insurance in Five Counties

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said Tuesday that five counties in Arkansas will be eligible for soybean insurance for the first time in 1962. Freeman said the insurance would be offered by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation to farmers in Jefferson, Phillips, Craighead, Lincoln and Monroe counties. He said the program would be expanded to more counties and crops "as rapidly as possible."

Half-Sister Part of This Triangle

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: You would say this couldn't happen but it has to a decent average middle-class young couple. My husband has fallen in love with my half-sister and she with him!

It all started two weeks before our baby girl, now eight months old, was born. Until then we were known as the happiest pair in our crowd. I worshipped the ground my husband walked on and still do. He is as unhappy as I but he says you can't put a leash on love.

My half-sister was away from home when we got married so he didn't meet her till she stayed with me during my time. This love struck them all at a sudden. I would make the better father for had to go to the hospital early. They would come very night, then go home together and that was that. He told me all about it when I got home. He tried to resist and couldn't.

Well, it hit me so hard I wanted to kill myself but with a young baby to care for, I knew that wasn't the way out; so I said to her and him, let's talk it over. We did and got nowhere. She has gone to another town, he sees her weekends. Where have I failed? Should I try to win him back or say goodbye forever? —G. R.

Dear G. R.: The righteous would have you say goodbye and good riddance without taking into consideration that your husband was at least honest about this illicit love and struggled against it. In view of the strain he was under, see this dark passion for what it is—an emotional flare-up which will fade as quickly as it flowered. Give him another chance.

Dear Helen: I am a girl of 13 who has a 16-year-old brother. Every day I write in my diary and every day he reads it, then tells our mother what I wrote. She won't punish him. I have even tried hiding the diary but somehow he finds it. To make matters worse, he reads portions to my boy friend. This has proved very embarrassing to me. What can I do? —Unhappy Sister.

Dear Unhappy Sister: Give that snooty brother tit for tat. Keep tabs on him and his girl friend and fill your diary with the findings!

Dear Helen: I have been married three times. Now my first husband wants me to remarry him. He is willing to live where I wish but fundamentally he is the same old give-in character and as in the past I would have to wear the pants. This I don't like. To complicate matters my third husband wants me to return to him but he is as strict as the first is lax. It is a question of which I would make the better father for the son by my second husband. The boy needs a father. I don't want to try another man. With my luck I would draw one worse than the other three. Any suggestions? —Mrs. D.

Dear Mrs. D.: You will be taken for a ride on the marriage-go-round again, if you fall for the soft-soaping of husbands One and Three. Warned over love is a cold dish and a second-hand step-father no substitute for the real thing. Children do grow up without paternal guidance.

Have the strength of character to rear your son alone and if or when you marry again, pick a good husband for yourself and it will follow as sure as night follows day, that he will be a good father for your son.

Send your problems to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful letters available. Write for "Divorce-Separations."

Deaths charged to the hurricane included five Wednesday in Kansas. A family of four perished in car that swept off the road near Waverly and another victim in a car swept off a causeway at Fort Scott.

Tornadoes generated before and after Carla's center surged inland with winds up to 175 miles per hour took six lives in Galveston and five others at two points in Louisiana. Still others died from touching power lines snapped at the hurricane's height.

Sightseers flocked toward Galveston after ebbs waters uncovered a causeway.

To keep curious spectators from interfering with the giant rehabilitation job ahead, Texas Gov. Price Daniel ordered the National Guard to put roadblocks at the Galveston county line. He said local authorities agreed that non-essential travel was interfering with the return of refugees.

The port of Houston, closed since Carla started drawing near, was expected to reopen today. About 30 ships are anchored at en.

Bomber Is Released by Faubus

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus Wednesday took steps to open prison doors for the last of four men sentenced to prison terms for Little Rock's integration-linked Labor Day, 1959, bombings.

Faubus reduced the term of E. A. Lauderdale Sr. from three years to one year making the 49-year-old Little Rock lumber dealer eligible for parole immediately. The governor also returned the $500 fine assessed against the one-time candidate for city director.

Lauderdale entered the state prison April 2 after an unsuccessful appeal to the state Supreme Court. The ardent segregationist was accused of masterminding the dynamiting of the school board office, the mayor's business office and the fire chief's city-owned station wagon.

Four others were convicted. Three went to prison and have since been released. One member of the group was given a suspended five-year sentence.

Testimony at the trial showed the bombings were intended to harass Little Rock for accepting court-ordered racial integration in the public high schools. Schools opened on an integrated basis that fall and police used fire hoses and clubs to beat back a segregationist march on Central High School.

The state Pardon and Parole Board recommended that Faubus commute Lauderdale's term. He now may apply for parole.

It was surmised at the time of the dynamiting that the bombers charted the fire chief as a target because his men had manned the fire hoses against segregationist marchers at Central.

$10,000 Awarded for Child's Death

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The parents of a 26-month-old girl who was accidentally scalded to death at the Booneville Tuberculosis Sanatorium were awarded $10,000 today by the state Claims Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Henderson of Alexander had charged negligence in the death of their daughter, Martha Maxine, last February. They had sought $25,000.

The girl was playing in a bathroom of the sanatorium's children's ward when she somehow tumbled into a tub of scalding water. She died the next day while being transferred to a Little Rock hospital for treatment of burns.

One commission member, James R. Campbell of Hot Springs, said, "I was dumbfounded to learn that the sanatorium had no facilities for treatment of such emergencies as burns."

Chairman David L. Ford of Fort Smith said the commission would not recommend any policy changes to provide such facilities. He said this should be up to the legislature.

Faubus has said these appropriations requests may be brought up again in a second special session, primarily on congressional redistricting.

House Speaker John P. Bethell, a staunch backer of vocational schools, said today he had a tentative promise that the $275,000 bill would be included in a new special session call.

Faubus has until next Thursday to sign or veto bills passed at the first special session. He already has signed most of them.

M&M Chances Hampered by the Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain forced the New York Yankees-Chicago White Sox game to be postponed Wednesday night and rescheduled as a doubleheader today. Both Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle figure the postponement hurts their chances of breaking Babe Ruth's home run record.

"Somehow I've never done too well in doubleheaders," said Maris, the leader with 36 home runs and a three-game edge over Ruth record 60 pace of 1927.

"I'd rather play them one game at a time," said Mantle, three games behind the Bambino with 53 homers.

Despite this there'll likely be a doubleheader sometime today. The White Sox have set the starting time at 1:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time but will take the whole day to complete the twin bill if necessary. In the event of a further postponement, there is an open date Monday which may be used.

While the Yanks were idled, the second-place Detroit Tigers took the opportunity to reduce the American League leaders margin to 11 games by blanking the Kansas City A's 6-0 behind Jim Bunning's five-hit pitching and home runs by Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash.

The Cleveland Indians snapped a six-game losing streak by beating Baltimore 5-0 on Gary Bell's four hitter and Washington beat Boston 4-2. A two-night doubleheader between Los Angeles and Minnesota was postponed.

In the National League, Joey Jay won his 20th for first-place Cincinnati as the Reds white washed Milwaukee 1-0 and moved 5 1/2 games in front of the second-place Dodgers, who lost 8-2 to Pittsburgh. San Francisco defeated Philadelphia 8-2. The Chicago St. Louis game was washed out.

Maris and Mantle each got to bat once before the all-day rain finally made the field unplayable in the third with the Yankees leading 2-1. Maris singled to center and Mantle fouled out to the catcher in the first inning.

The postponement left the Yanks' magic number at seven.

The Tigers jumped off to a 4-0 lead against A's starter Jim Archer (8-13) in the first four innings, then put it away with a four-run fifth as Colavito smacked his 42nd homer with two on and Cash followed with his 35th.

Must Regard 61 Homers a New Record

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — American League president Joe Cronin said today if New York's Roger Maris, or Mickey Mantle hit 61 home runs in the regulation 162-game schedule, it must be regarded as a new record.

Rain prevented Mantle and Maris from continuing their bid Wednesday night to move up on Babe Ruth's 34-year-old record of 60 homers in one season.

Maris has hit 56 in the Yankees' 146 games (including a tie), and Mantle has 53.

Roger is three games ahead of Ruth's pace and Mantle is three behind.

A getaway doubleheader between the Yankees and the Chicago White Sox was scheduled for this afternoon.

Cronin said he did not wish to become involved in any dispute with Ford Frick.

At the same time, he added, he could see no logic in the commissioner's ruling which specifies that Ruth's 60 homers in 1927 must be topped in 154 decisions to count as a new standard.

"After all, Ruth hit his 60 in 151 games," said Hall of Famer Cronin, a contemporary of Ruth when he was the star shortstop and manager of the Washington Senators in the early 1930s.

"Therefore, if a person wants to be technical he can say the record counts only if either Maris or Mantle hit 61 homers in as many games as Ruth did."

"I respect the commissioner's feelings about the matter, but as far as I'm concerned, it will be a record of either or both do it in 162 games."

Prediction by Broyles Comes True

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —

Arkansas had arrived in Dallas for the Cotton Bowl game and Coach Frank Broyles rushed to his first news conference.

"Frank, I know it's a bit early," began one of the battery of newsmen, "but for two years now you convince us in September that you are not a contender for the championship. And here you are again on top of the heap. What's going to be the story next year?"

Broyles studied for a moment and then started his tormentor with this analysis: "I'll say this right now, when next September rolls around I expect to tell you the same story and I'll wager you that two or three teams will again be picked ahead of me. We just don't have the personnel — it takes extra scrap and I can't predict that in advance."

Well, here it is September and the Broyles forecast is as good as gold. The Rice Owls have been tabbed for the crown, Texas has been labeled the strongest contender — and include Baylor and Arkansas as dangerous aspirants.

The reasoning: Arkansas lost a dozen or so key veterans. The big name a year ago was offensive star Jim Motley. This year it's Wayne Harris, a defensive giant at 187 pounds. Their loss is more than manpower, it's a change in strategy altogether.

In 1960, with Harris in the saddle, defense won critical games for Arkansas. But the tide has turned for 1961 and though Broyles had rather put his foot on ball stock in a sound defense, offense may have to come up with the answers. The losses from 1960 included players known for their defensive prowess; the returnees include those who wrote the offensive headlines—Lance Alworth, quarterbacks George McKinney and Billy Moore, and Jimmy Collier and interior linemen Dean Garrett, Jerry Lineberger and John Childress. That shift in emphasis dictates the strategy. The Razorbacks are going to have to move the ball more consistently, improve the punting game and again look to the field goal for help.

Alworth appears headed for his greatest year. And he's expected to get the help he needs on the right side of the backfield. Senior Paul Dudley should mean to Alworth what Mantle means to Maris—or vice versa. Not discounting Alworth's tremendous speed, Dudley could reach out and touch him at the finish line if they ran the 100-yard dash together.

The offense will have balance, too. McKinney's throwing arm set off nine touchdown strikes a year ago. With shift Billy Moore as a perfect counterpart, the two should provide experienced and balanced play — calling for the Razorbacks. And at fullback, though the losses were severe, the offensive picture is encouraging. Jim Worthington, Billy Joe Moody and Jesse Branch have excellent speeds and size.

Veteran linemen include tackles John Childress, Jerry Mazzanti, Billy Clay and Garrett, shifted from guard; guards Danny Brubham, Ray Trail, Charlie Moore and squadmate Tommy Polk, and center Lineberger. At end, in addition to Collier, there are Tim Langston and Hoover Evans. Sophomores play the desired role in the Arkansas lineup—just a sprinkling but plenty of fight.

Americans Held by Reds for Smuggling

BERLIN (AP)—Two American youths touring Europe are being held by Communist authorities on charges of trying to smuggle an East German woman into West Berlin.

The two, Victor S. Pankey and Gilbert P. Ferrey, both 20, of Tustin, Calif., were accused of hiding the woman in the luggage compartment of a small German car while visiting East Berlin.

The East German Interior Ministry—quoted by the A.Z.N. news agency—said they were picked up at the Friedrichsstrasse checkpoint, the only one open for foreigners in the divided city.

The ministry said they will be handed over to Communist courts after investigations are completed.

The two were taking a vacation in Europe before returning to their classes in the United States. Ferrey's sister, Mrs. David McFadden of Tustin, Calif., said he had recently written her that they had no trouble getting into East Berlin—"our passports are like magic wands."

A Briton and a Dutchman also were separate attempts to bring out the East Berliners described only as "female persons."

The Briton, Bernhard J. Collett, 30, was charged with trying to kidnap a woman by hiding her in the luggage compartment of his car. The Dutchman, Henri J. Piro, 55, was accused of trying to get a woman across the border on his wife's passport.

Ernest Lemmer, West Germany minister for all-German affairs, said a wave of political arrests is sweeping East Germany. He said the daily number of refugees escaping to the West is in three figures" despite the barriers the East Germans threw up at the border of the divided city.

Jay Beats Old Teammates for 20th Win

BY MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

Joey Jay, 26-year-old Cincinnati Reds' right-hander discarded by Milwaukee after the 1960 season, became this year's first 20-game winner in the National League Wednesday night by beating his former Braves' teammates 4-0 with a four-hitter.

He also scored the game's only run in the fifth inning.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, with reliever Harvey Haddix pitching two-hit ball over the final eight innings, beat second-place Los Angeles 8-2 and dropped the Dodgers 5 1/2 games back of the league-leading Reds. Any combination of nine Cincinnati victories and/or Los Angeles defeats will give the Reds the NL flag.

San Francisco's Giants moved into a tie for third place with the Braves by defeating last-place Philadelphia 8-2. The Chicago-St. Louis game was rained out.

In the American League, the first-place New York Yankees were idled by rain at Chicago. Second-place Detroit whipped Kansas City 6-0 and cut their deficit to 11 games. Cleveland blanked Baltimore 5-0 and Washington hopped Boston 4-2. The Los Angeles-Minnesota (twinight) was rained out.

Jay (20-9), first Cincinnati hurler to enter the 20-game circle since Evell Blackwell won 22 in 1947, completely handcuffed the team that signed him for $20,000 in 1953 and traded him to the Reds last winter. Jay scored the Reds' run on a two-out single by center by Vada Pinson. Carl Willey (5-11) was the loser.

Bill Mazeroski's second homer, with one on against reliever Dick Farrell (8-7) snapped a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning and sent the Dodgers crashing to their fifth loss in six games. Dick Stuart also homered for the Pirates, his 30th. Haddix (9-6) came in when Bob Friend retired due to a stiff shoulder after giving up two runs in the first.

Rookie right-hander Jim Duffalo (4-0), recalled from Tacoma Monday, practically got the job done for the Giants singlehandedly in his first major league start. He limited the Phils to six hits and drove in four runs—three with his first big league homer. Dallas Green (2-4) took the loss.

Alcohol Causes Undernourishment
ROME (AP)—Malnutrition from lack of vitamins plagues much of the world, but too much alcohol is the big cause of undernourishment in the United States, two Boston doctors report.

Dr. Pierre M. Dreyfuss and Dr. Maurice Victor of Massachusetts General Hospital said in a paper read at an International Congress of Neurology Wednesday that thiamine is the nutritional factor lacking in the diets of heavy drinkers.

Women May Go for Tear Gas Gadget

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — In the current issue of a ladies' magazine, there is an advertisement for a new product — a handy, nicely-packaged, purse-size tear gas bomb. Makes a lovely gift. For the woman who likes to keep her hand in everything, including mob violence.

Of course, the manufacturer sees it as a quick, certain protection against muggers, rapists and highwaymen. But how many American women, suddenly attacked, have the presence of mind and muscular reflexes to reach into their handbags, wrest a bomb from that clutter of cosmetics, and use it?

If there ARE any such women, surely they are competent and wily enough to render an assailant powerless with an old-fashioned hatpin — or maybe even with an autore glance.

But let the novelty makers have their fun. In this era of planned obsolescence, there must be new ideas on the market, and perhaps it is the height of idealism to plan the obsolescence of ruffians by tear gas.

Come to think of it, the purse-size tear gas bomb may have its uses after all. It may help break up the violence-minded batches of children whose parents have bought them another brand new product just on the market — junior-sized bull-fight kits.

These miniature models, which teach the glories of death in the afternoon, are advertised as fun and educational.

In addition, it seems here, they represent the sale of sadism in a neat, nasty package to American youth.

Teaching children that it is noble and beautiful to pursue a wild beast to the kill may be some adults' cup of tea, but to me, it seems infinitely more destructive to responsible rearing of kiddies than allowing them to see all the most objectionable crime shows on television. The highly-touted beauties of barbarism in the bull ring are capable of nauseating a good percentage of sensitive adults; but impress them on the unformed moral concept of a youngster — and heaven help the family dog, the neighborhood cat, and junior's sense of values.

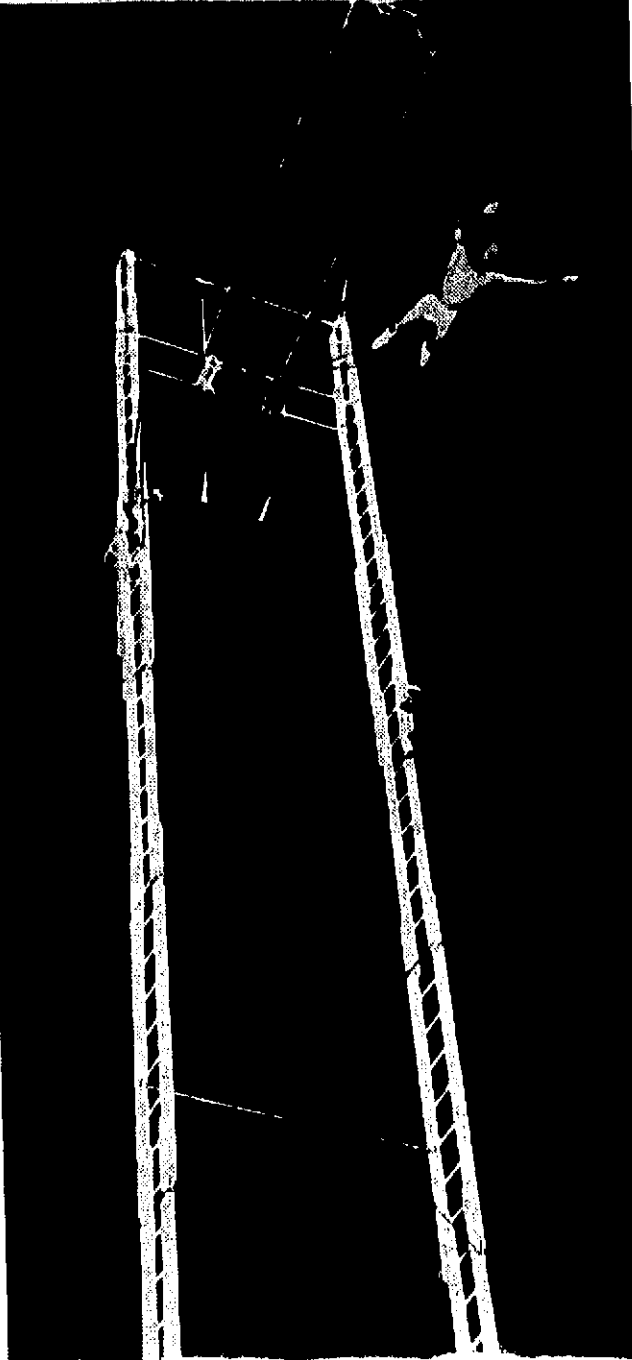

Children can be cruel enough, in their naivete, without purposefully teaching them that unkindness to animals is an exciting, respectable art!

I prefer to go along with the advice of Mrs. Lillian Rose, who was the first woman president of the Humane Society of New York. She told me that clinical records in the last 25 years prove, positively, that a child's live for a pet will keep him from becoming a delinquent.

"It makes no difference what kind of a dog (or cat, or other domesticated animal) a child has; if the child really cares for it, he is not going to become a criminal. Pets are, literally, agents for crime prevention."

Mrs. Rose pointed out that a child with a pet will be:

1. More sociable than other youngsters, because young pet

STUNT STARS FOR AUSTYN'S MOTOR DERBY AND Thrill Circus don't confine themselves to automobiles, as the "Clown Prince" of aerial artists, Jimmy Troy of Liverpool, England, graphically demonstrates in this trapeze "breakaway" feat. Extra features, such as this, will complement the Motor Derby and Thrill Circus program when it appears Sept. 27 at Third District Livestock Show.

owners make friends easily with pet owners of all ages. Little boys with dogs develop firm friendships even with grandmothers who have dogs.

2. More loyal, because "dogs are famous for loyalty, and a child is likely to develop his pet's attitude."
3. Gentler, because "if the child soon learns that if he treats the pet with kindness, he will have a friend for life, whereas if he is cruel, the pet will avoid him. It is a quick, clear lesson in good behavior."
4. More secure, because the mute love of a pet is ever-present, always dependable, as opposed to the necessary fickle motions of friends and family.

Most important, perhaps, is the fact that any animal worth his horse meat is loaded with energy. At the very least, then, he'll lead the child a merry chase and get him away from the sedentary life in front of the TV set. And at best — the youngster will be so busy keeping up with his dog he won't be able to get into mischief with gangs who try to molest ladies armed with tear-gas bombs!

Science Says Beware of Castor Bean

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The danger of flu outbreaks this fall, a poisonous bean on a garden plant, and a look at seasickness are subjects for Focus on Health: Get Flu Shots.

Health authorities warn that there is likely to be an upswing in influenza outbreaks this fall and winter—and they urge vaccination now.

Because various flu outbreaks come in definite cycles, the U.S. Public Health Service predicts the nation is due for some Asian flu and overdue for Type B flu this year. Both types have been prevalent elsewhere in the world this past season.

Persons over 65, pregnant women and persons suffering from heart disease, diabetes or other chronic illnesses are urged to get flu shots now.

"The National Tuberculosis Association warns that persons with respiratory ailments like TB, and emphysema are in especial danger.

Beware the Castor Bean

If you have small children roaming your yard, beware of the castor oil plant and its fruit, the castor bean.

Many gardeners grow these plants because of their decorative appearance and large leaves. They often substitute as a quick growing shrub about new homes.

But if any unwary child should chew the castor bean, fatal poisoning can result, says a University of Michigan pediatrician, Dr. George H. Lowrey.

Symptoms appear in one to two days. They include vomiting, drowsiness, stupor and stomach ache, with death occurring within 12 days.

Sailing, Sailing

Who's most likely to get seasick?

A study of U.S. soldiers riding troopships back and forth across the Atlantic indicated these findings:

More seasickness for those under 25 years of age, than those above.

Those in the forward and after sections of the ship were more often seasick than those amidships.

Heavier persons were more susceptible than lighter individuals.

Those making their first ocean crossing were more susceptible than more experienced hands.

The most effective seasickness pills contained the drug meclizine.

Mildew Big Problem This Time of Year

"Mildew? What do you do about it?" HD Agent Mrs. Bettie Duncan is often asked.

A common discovery in many Arkansas homes during this season of the year is that menace to housekeeping called mildew. Mildew, once started, will grow on just about anything and is particularly fond of clothing.

Mrs. Duncan suggests, "Should mildew develop on your clothes remove the spots right away." Mildew allowed to remain on the clothing not only weakens the fabric but makes removal of the spots extremely difficult.

To remove mildew spots, brush the stained clothes off outside. This prevents spreading mold spores around in the house. Next launder washable fabrics in soap and water and dry in the sun. Send the non-washable fabrics to the cleaners.

A lemon juice and salt mixture will remove stubborn stains, but test fabrics for color fastness before using this treatment. Rinse thoroughly with water afterwards.

On leather, use a cloth moistened in diluted alcohol to wipe away mildew stains. One cup of denatured alcohol should be diluted with one cup of water.

Preventive treatment can do a great deal to retard the mildew growth. To keep the mildew out, good ventilation is imperative. Air closets regularly and hang your clothes so air can circulate around them. Shoes and luggage can be protected against mildew with a good coat of wax, Mrs. Duncan said.

Delays Call for Special Session

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus, still hopeful Congress will increase membership of the House, again today delayed setting a definite date for a special legislative session on congressional redistricting.

The tentative starting date remained next Monday.

Faubus said the session would be delayed until Oct. 2 unless bills to expand the House are killed in committee before Thursday.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, R-N.Y., of the House Judiciary Committee said Tuesday he considered the bills dead. But Faubus said today he had been in contact with Washington and he was more hopeful than ever that an expansion bill eventually will pass.

It would be foolish, Faubus said, for a special session to enact another four-district plan when Arkansas might get five congressmen if House membership is increased by as much as 17.

A compromise redistricting proposal readied for consideration by the special session simply revises a 1961 act which divided the state into four districts, a reduction of two.

Faubus has been in daily contact with Washington for the past few days. He said he was told another effort to get an expansion bill through a Judiciary Subcommittee would be made today.

Faubus has declined to tell the name of his Washington contact.

"A lot of effort is being spent to get this bill through committee," Faubus said. "I don't think they'd go to all this trouble unless they were fairly certain of success."

Faubus said he expected the compromise redistricting proposal to go through the legislature easily if Arkansas is left with only four seats.

The reason the special session will be delayed two weeks if it cannot start Monday is that Faubus will attend the Southern Governors Conference at Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 24-27.

The compromise proposal moves Jefferson and Lincoln counties from a northeastern district to a southern district and Arkansas County from the northeastern district to a north central one.

These counties, unhappy with the 1961 redistricting act, circulated petitions to refer it to a popular vote. This suspended the act and would mean congressional candidates would run at large in 1962 unless the legislature adopts another law.

Marmaduke Gas System Okayed

Laws Signed to Combat Gambling

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy signed into law today three bills to help combat the underworld's gambling and racketeering enterprises.

His brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, who had asked for the measures to bolster his declared war on organized crime, watched as the President affixed his signature to the tough new laws which:

1. Make it a felony punishable by five years in prison and $10,000 fine to cross a state line or to use the mails or other interstate commerce facilities in gambling, liquor, prostitution and narcotics rackets.

2. Forbid the interstate smuggling of gambling paraphernalia, with penalties up to five years in prison and $10,000 fine for violations.

3. Outlaw the interstate transmission by wire of bets and of racing or other information vital to bookmakers in their gambling operations. This aims a blow at the now mostly clandestine but legal race wires. The new law carries penalties up to two years in prison and $10,000 fine.

The bills, part of a package of seven antiracketeering measures requested by the administration, had sailed through Congress to the accompaniment of testimony that gambling is the "bread and butter" of the underworld.

State to Buy Bonds

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Part of an industrial bond issue voted to finance a new industrial plant at Rogers will be purchased by the state Board of Finance. Frank A. Storey, board secretary, said Tuesday the state would buy $150,000 worth of the $350,000 issue, the maximum it is allowed to purchase under state law.

His Hobby Is Collecting Reptiles

By BOB HARING
Associated Press Staff Writer

Billy Calaway's hobby wouldn't appeal to most folks. He collects snakes.

The Batesville reptile collector captured a prize over Labor Day, a 40-inch long canebrake rattler. It was, he said, his toughest battle with a poisonous snake.

Calaway spotted the snake crawling along as he was driving near Batesville. He pursued it until he managed to step on it near its head. But it broke loose and struck at Calaway's foot.

It missed and Calaway pinned it more firmly, then grabbed it behind the head. It coiled around his arm but eventually he got it transferred to a cloth sack he carries to haul snakes.

He's not going to keep it, though. He intends to give it to the Little Rock zoo.

Moscow, Ark., has no relation to Moscow, Russia. The Arkansas community, reports Clarence Taylor of the Pine Bluff Commercial, was named for Moscow, Tenn.

How many generals did Arkansas provide for the South during the late war?

Eighteen, says John P. Morrow Jr. of Batesville although he adds that records differ slightly in crediting Confederate generals to Arkansas. But three sources give 18 as the number, though at times the names are different.

Here's Morrow's list: Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Churchill, Pat R. Cleburne, James F. Fagan and Thomas C. Hindman; Brig. Gens. William N. R. Beall, William L. Cabell, Thomas P. Dockery, Daniel Govan, Alexander T. Hawthorne, James McIntosh, Evander McNair, Dandridge McRae, Albert Pike, Lucius Polk, Dan Reynolds, John S. Roane, Albert Rust, J. C. Tappan plus Stand Wade, an Indian.

Other references, he says, name John Kelley, Marsh Walker, S. M. Barton, E. W. Gantt and T. H. McCray as Arkansas generals. Thomas Bradley, James Yell and N. B. Burrow had general's rank in command of state troops.

The first day of school was quiet in North Little Rock this year compared to the opening day of 32 years ago.

That year, 1929, classes opened in a temporary frame structure.

Actually, it was something of an achievement to get school started at all. The high school and junior high school burned to the ground only five days before classes were to start.

Only the four outside walls were left after the flames died away.

The Sunday following the fire work started on a replacement. Several hundred carpenters from the Missouri Pacific Railroad shops joined with other volunteers. They worked to music from the MoPac band.

Hundreds of spectators turned out and church women served lunch and supper to the workmen.

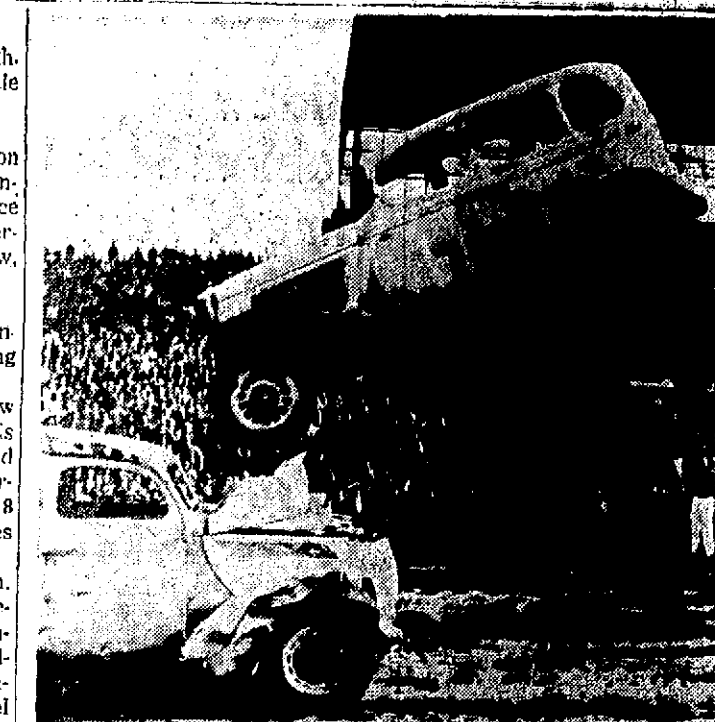

A new building was erected in one day, finishing touches were added the next two days and classes in the new 20-room building started on Wednesday.

Then work began on a permanent replacement. That building, now North Little Rock High School, was completed later in the year.

Teachers to Decide on Retirement

By JOHN R. STARR
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Most of the ballots are out and election machinery is just about set for teachers to vote Sept. 20 on whether they want to reorganize their retirement system to include Social Security.

However the vote goes, teachers this year will feel a bigger salary bite for their retirement program. The cost to the teacher went from 5 to 8 per cent effective July 1.

Hoyt Pyle, director of the Teacher Retirement System, said 14,000 to 15,000 system members are eligible to vote. A bare majority can approve Social Security.

State Treasurer L. A. Clayton is official election supervisor, but Pyle's office has handled preliminary paperwork. This consisted of determining the number of eligible voters, preparing ballots and mailing them out.

The ballots are sent in packages to superintendents and heads of agencies whose employees are system members. They will distribute a ballot and an envelope addressed to Clayton to each teacher. The teacher is expected to mark the ballot and mail it on Sept. 20. Clayton's office estimated it would take a week to 10 days to collect and count votes.

Teacher retirement was a major item of $33 million for continuation of construction on Greers Ferry, Beaver and Dardanelle dams and $15 million for bank stabilization work on the Arkansas River in Arkansas and Oklahoma.

The bill was recommended by the Appropriations Committee a week ago and approved on voice vote by the House Tuesday. A clinching roll call vote was expected today.

Highlights Today in History

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1901, President William McKinley died after being shot by an anarchist nine days earlier, and Theodore Roosevelt became the 26th president of the United States.

On this date— In 1752, Great Britain began using the Gregorian calendar.

In 1800, French acrobat Charles Blondin crossed Niagara Falls on a tightrope and wearing stilts.

In 1923, Jack Dempsey knocked out Luis Angel Firpo of Argentina in the second round of their historic bout in New York City.

In 1940, Congress passed the first peacetime military draft in U.S. history.

In 1953, the New York Yankees became the first baseball club in history to win five consecutive major league pennants.

Ten years ago . . . the United States, Britain and France protested a ban on Czech airline flights over West Germany imposed by the Red Czech government.

Five years ago . . . U.N. Secretary General Hammarskjöld warned Israel and Jordan against further outbreaks along their frontier in disregard of U.N. appeals.

One year ago . . . the Congolese Army chief of staff, Col. Joseph Mobutu seized control of that country in an effort to end chaos caused by a power struggle between President Kasavubu and Premier Lumumba.

For controversy in the last regular legislative session. The amount of the state's contribution to teacher retirement was the bone of contention.

The Arkansas Education Association wanted the state's share set at 9.72 per cent. Gov. Orval E. Faubus wanted a 5 per cent maximum on the state's contribution. He later amended this to a flat cash contribution of $3.7 million this year and $3.9 million in fiscal 1962-63.

Faubus won. The Legislature, under pressure from both sides, passed bills to set up both plans. Faubus signed his and vetoed the AEA's.

A study committee was set up to look into all aspects of teacher retirement and report to the 1963 Legislature so a permanent retirement plan can be devised.

The vote on Social Security and the boost in the individual teacher's contribution was in both plans. Both also call for a contribution of 3 per cent from local school districts, which now pay nothing toward retirement.

If Social Security is adopted, the extra 3 per cent from teachers and the school district's contribution will pay costs of the federal program.

Should Social Security be rejected, this total of 6 per cent would go into the regular retirement program.

Overall retirement benefits won't be greatly changed in the long run whichever system is adopted. If Social Security is approved, the regular annual retirement benefit, starting last July 1, will be computed at 1 1/4 per cent of salary times the number of years worked.

This, plus the Social Security check, would total about the same as 2 per cent of salary times the number of years worked. This is what the retirement system pays under the present setup.

Teachers will get benefit of the 2 per cent formula for all work before July 1 of this year, even if Social Security benefits are added. This would result in larger benefits for teachers who can retire soon after they have worked long enough to qualify for a Social Security check.

The teacher who has 10 years or more before retirement will get about the same benefit under combined Social Security, retirement system as she would have under the retirement system before it was reorganized.

Every Teen-Age Girl Can Be A Model At Home

"But daddy, skirts are getting shorter," the teen-ager insists as she prepares to update her school clothes.

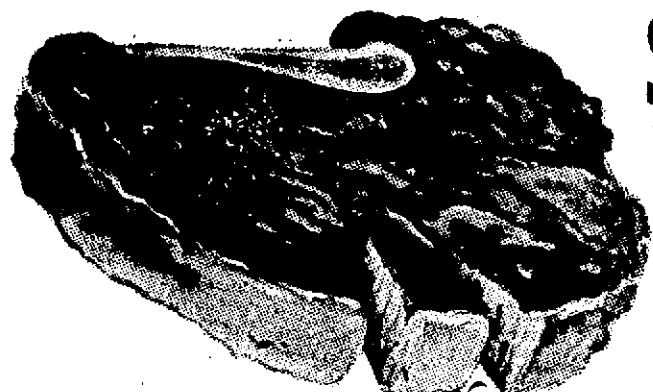

Every girl yearns to be a model. Next time your teen-ager sighs "there's nothing to do" why not organize a "fashion show" of her back-to-school clothes? This can spark her interest and pride in her personal appearance, give her a share of responsibility for her wardrobe, and win you a helper to make a breeze of the end-of-the-season closet and drawer check. Dad can be an appreciative audience.

Invite your "model" to remove her possessions from their storage places and put them neatly on the bed for a pre-show inspection. Together, you can sort articles in top condition from those which need laundering, hems straightened, or minor repairs. It's time for the fashion show only when the last missing button is replaced and each strap is firmly sewn in place.

Since everything worn in a fashion show must be immaculate, it's important to launder daughter's fall cottons in the automatic washer. Add one cup of dry chlorine bleach during the last half of the wash cycle to brighten their color. Soaking in fabric-safe, heavy duty dry chlorine bleach also helps remove heavy soil from cottons. Never wash white nylons with detergent and dry chlorine bleach help restore original whiteness to yellowing nylons.

When lowering or raising hems, it's a good idea to rip out the old one and launder the garment with a little dry chlorine bleach to remove the soil of the old hem line. Iron the dress before putting on the new hem. White sneakers welcome a once-a-season washing with detergent and dry chlorine bleach, too. To remove stubborn stains, follow the instructions on the dry chlorine package.

Meat Bargain
Plentiful
at Markets

Weekly Food Review
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Housewives will face multiple choices of meats among weekend specials this week at supermarkets and neighborhood stores.

With the beef supply plentiful, prices are attractive. For example, sirloin steak is down 10 cents a pound from last week in the New York metropolitan area and down 26 cents in Detroit.

Featured beef cuts include sirloin and porterhouse steaks and rib and round roasts. Also on the bargain list are ground and stewing beef.

Hams and butts are the main pork offerings.

Frying legs, chops and roasting chickens are widely offered.

Lamb legs, chops and combinations are featured in the Eastern and Western sections of the country.

Fish specials include smelts, swordfish, perch, white and cod. Best buys among vegetables are beans, cabbage, carrots, Chinese cabbage, eggplant, yellow globe onions, peppers, Eastern potatoes, yellow squash, tomatoes, turnips, rutabaga from Canada and watercress.

Listed as good buys are broccoli, celery, corn, cucumbers, Boston and Romaine lettuce, okra, Western Spanish onions, Western russet potatoes, radishes, green Italian squash and sweet potatoes.

Best buys in the fruit market are honeydew melons, grapes, peaches, cantaloupes and Persian melons are good buys.

Medic Group to Get Delay in Induction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medical personnel of eight military hospitals which are being called up for active duty on Oct. 1 will get a two-weeks delay in reporting, it was announced today.

One of the units is the 98th Mobile Surgical Hospital of Little Rock, Ark. It is part of the Army Reserve.

The Army said the idea is to let the units get set up, issue equipment and complete other organizing tasks before the medical personnel report.

Physicians, nurses and dentists will not have to join their units until Oct. 15.

The Army also announced that certain medical and dental students who are reserve officers will be allowed to continue their schooling when their units enter active service.

Affected are students who have been granted a year's deferment from military service in return for each year they agree to spend in uniform after graduation.

Also coming under this policy are reserve medical officers, commissioned through the ROTC, who previously have been granted delays in military service to com-

Telephone Group
Elects Arkansan

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Milton Caldwell of Texarkana is the new president of the Arkansas Telephone Association. His election came as the group ended a meeting here Tuesday. Caldwell succeeded Mrs. Kay Adair of Dumas. Other new officers are R. L. Thompson of Alma, first vice president; Austin Goodman of Elaine, second vice president, and J. D. Garrett Jr. of Lewisville, secretary-treasurer.

Navy Accuse
by Senate
Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators accuse naval officials of showing a lack of concern about payoffs and influence deals involving some civilian employees.

A report filed today with the Senate by Sen. John L. McClellan D-Ark., said his Senate Investigations subcommittee had disclosed situations which could have endangered the lives of those aboard improperly repaired ships.

The report formally concluded the subcommittee's investigation of the Atlantic headquarters base for the Military Sea Transportation Service, a naval agency, at Brooklyn, N.Y.

The subcommittee called for prosecution by the Justice Department, a study of the income tax returns of a number of witnesses, and a possible blacklisting of some ship repair firms.

MSTS runs a big fleet of vessels which ferries men and material to and from military bases in many sections of the world. The fleet is being enlarged for possible emergency duty in the Berlin crisis.

The unanimous report said the inquiry was undertaken because of reports that payoffs and influence deals were resulting in inferior work on MSTS vessels which could cause the loss of life or valuable cargo.

"The basic allegations were in fact true," the report said.

The report said the investigation showed improper financial dealings by MSTS personnel, and also proved that it was customary for ship repair companies to shower them with gifts.

plete their medical or dental education.

Reserve medical officers undergoing full-time residency training may be excused from active duty provided they can finish this training within nine months after Oct. 1.

These officers must agree to serve two years of active duty starting next June 30, the Army said.

Rulings Made on Alcoholics

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An alcoholic who voluntarily enters the State Hospital for treatment can be retained at the hospital by a probate court order, the attorney general's office ruled Tuesday. Another opinion said members of county welfare boards are eligible to serve two full consecutive seven-year terms.

Personal
Calls Bother
to Business

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — At one time or another every husband has told his wife sternly:

"Now, don't phone me any more at the office. I'm being paid to work there, remember, not to waste company time listening to personal calls."

But it really doesn't do much good, does it?

A business firm may even formally ban during office hours all personal calls except those of an emergency nature. That doesn't do much good either.

To a wife any message she decides she wants to communicate to her husband is always of an emergency nature. And, by heaven and Alexander Graham Bell, she intends to get that message through.

If all the hours spent by husbands listening to their wives on company time could be put to constructive use, well—we'd have a missile on the moon by this weekend.

Wives who phone their husbands on the job fall into several classes. Every office switchboard operator is familiar with these types:

Barometric Bertha — She confuses her husband with the U.S. Weather Bureau. "I may go up, town later," she phones. "Tell me what it's like out—hot or cold? Do you think it will rain? What about the humidity?"

Five-alarm Flora — To her everything that happens at home is a disaster. Then she clears all wires to inform hubby in a voice of doom: "I just burned my finger again," or, "Guess what happened? The dishwasher just blew a gasket!"

Melancholy Mabel — "Gee, honey," she whimpers into the mouthpiece. "I get so lonely and blue sitting here in this empty house all by myself. You've got the fun and excitement of your office. But what have I got? Nothing."

Maternal Matilda — "Little Bertram has learned to speak," she crows proudly. "Listen, and I'll put him on." After holding the phone to his ear for half an hour, the husband hears a faint "glub" Little Bertram has spoken!

Authoritative Agnes — She's the command type, and here are a few of her crisp orders of the day: "Remember to pick up my glasses during your lunch hour. Here's a list of what I want you to get at the store on the way home. No, they're not for tonight. I've decided you're taking me out tonight. So don't forget to get a shoe shine!" etc.

There they are—just a few typical live-wire corporation wives. Because of them a husband's office is not just an office. It is his home away from home, always reachable by telephone.

But don't call us, ladies, we'll call you!

New Hampshire has the lowest homicide rate of any state in the union. It was 0.3 per thousand in 1958, the latest year for which figures are available.

There are about 355,000 blind people in the United States.

Navy to Call
Up 1,957
Reservists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy moved today to call another 1,957 reservists to active duty next month to bring 18 reserve air squadrons to full strength.

This brings to nearly 8,400 the number of naval reservists summoned to active duty in October.

Reservists who are recalled involuntarily will be given at least 30 days notice and will be told to report at various times throughout October.

The Navy set up a schedule of priority order in which reservists will be called, insofar as military requirements permit.

The order:

1. Those who did not serve on active duty from June 25, 1950, to Jan. 31, 1955, or between Dec. 7, 1941, and Sept. 2, 1945 in any of the military services or the Public Health Service. Credit also is given for service in World War

II in the armed forces of any Allied nations.
2. Veterans of the Korean War who had not served in World War II.
3. World War II veterans who did not serve in the Korean War.
4. Veterans of both wars.
There was no geographical breakdown on where the additional reservists would be drawn from.

Food Sense □ Not Nonsense

Break Through for Peak Performance

Cutting through center to score peak performance for athletes is a treasure fund of research-backed rules on food. Published recently in Physiological Reviews, the research shunts aside food fallacies and old wives tales. It gives beleaguered team physicians, coaches, school administrators, parents, you and me—when we play the endurance game—ground rules to follow.

Energy. To endure, make sure you have energy on tap, whether for chasing a 3-year old all day, for a prolonged football game, or for golf. A continuing flow of energy depends on the food you eat and your supply of oxygen. In using oxygen to release energy, carbohydrate is 10 percent more effective than fat or protein.

Meal timing. Space 4-6 meals daily within your calorie quota. Vitamins. Hard, physical exercise increases your need for B vitamins—thiamine in particular. A thiamine shortage causes fatigue and exhaustion. To make sure of thiamine, eat liver and pork often, enriched or whole grain bread and cereal daily.

Best advice for amateur and professional athlete alike, say authors Jean Mayer and Beverly Bullen: Eat a variety of foods daily—Enriched or whole grain bread and cereal, milk or cheese, meat or an alternate, fruits and vegetables.

Special Pre-Event Meal Instructions for Strenuous Contests:

- Avoid a heavy meal within 3-4 hours before the game.
- For endurance events, concentrate on foods high in carbohydrate, low in fat. Include plenty of cereal, bread, jam, honey.
- To prevent disabling discomfort during the game, avoid high protein and bulky foods.
- Omit coffee, tea, and alcohol to avoid a depressing effect later.

Job Means More Than Moon Trip

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The statistical side of the recession has been pretty well erased. And today there is a bit more than just hope that the human side is on the mend.

Many are returning to old jobs or finding new ones. And if all goes well, the number of unemployed may drop below the four million mark a month from now.

For many Americans, licking the unemployment problem would seem more important than getting a man on the moon.

"The 'ifs' in the case are troublesome ones. And a total of jobless just under four million still isn't anything to brag about. But it's better than the figures of recent months that have counted 7 per cent of the labor force as looking for work in vain.

The hope for the better than seasonal drop in unemployment is based on expectations that industry is now ready for a big step upward. It already is pretty much back to where it was before the 1960 recession.

Economists at the Northern Trust Co., Chicago, note: "In the recovery to date, however, it would appear that more than half is the result of a turn from liquidation to moderate accumulation of business inventories and to increased federal spending, as well as the stimulus of large orders for military goods."

The "ifs" that cloud the prediction for increased employment include what the Chicago economists call the "more volatile sectors of economic activity, including automobiles and other durable consumer goods, residential building and business investment in new plant and equipment." And they note that "the expectation is widespread that further gains in these sectors are in prospect." They warn that this is yet to be proved.

A major basis for expecting an employment pickup is the belief that the auto industry, when its labor difficulties are settled, can head for big production. If the public buys the 1962 models as Detroit hopes, the boost to the economy would be considerable.

Steel has owed most of its output recovery so far to other customers, but counts heavily on auto makers' orders coming in greater volume soon.

Another big "if" is consumer buying intentions. These are expected to firm up fast if the economy takes on the aspect of even a mild boom. Business spending, also coasting now, could pick up just as rapidly as sentiment improves.

All of this is giving the job outlook a brighter aspect. And that is why the Labor Department thinks there's a fair chance the jobless total will drop below the four million mark in October. It was above five million in June and July.

Plugs for Changes

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Ouachita Rep. David H. Pryor of Camden continued plugging for a new state Constitution Tuesday. He told the Little Rock League of Women Voters that one of the biggest obstacles to political improvements in Arkansas is the state's present constitution, adopted in 1847.

Orange Jelly Is Delightful Dessert For Weight-Watchers

Curb calories but still enjoy a lovely dessert with your dinner tonight. Sweet, tempting desserts can and should be a part of your diet plan. With judicious calorie-cutting, most desserts can be prepared so that they're well within low-calorie diet limitations, yet taste just as delicious as their high-calorie originals.

Here's the secret. Eliminate the unnecessary calories of sugar by using instead a calorie-free sweetener. In our fantastically good recipe for Orange Dessert Jelly, the non-calorie sweetener, Sucaryl, provides a pleasant natural-tasting sweetness and at the same time saves well over half the total calories usually found in this dessert. Count just 76 calories for each serving of this appealing "weight-watcher's special."

Orange Dessert Jelly (Low-Calorie)

3 tablespoons (or envelopes) unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice

2 tablespoons Sucaryl solution
1 1-pound can dietetic applesauce
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Soften gelatin in 1/2 cup of the orange juice. Heat remaining orange juice and add to softened gelatin, stirring to dissolve. Add lemon juice, Sucaryl, applesauce and nutmeg. Pour into a lightly oiled 9-inch square pan. Chill until set. At serving time, cut into squares and heap into a serving dish or 6 dessert dishes. If desired, garnish with grated orange peel and low-calorie whipped topping.

Makes 6 servings. Each serving contains 76 Calories; 5 grams protein; trace of fat; 14.5 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 205 Calories.

The U. S. Naval Observatory in Washington has been keeping the nation on time since its founding in 1844.

Thinks U. S. Could Survive Nuclear War

EDITOR'S NOTE — By taking the necessary measures now, a world-famous nuclear scientist says, the nation can either avoid atomic war or win it if it comes. Dr. Edward Teller believes 90 per cent of the U.S. population could survive the holocaust. This is the first of three articles on the subject.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The date is some dreadful tomorrow.

The holocaust of nuclear war suddenly sweeps the United States.

But 90 per cent of Americans could actually survive, declares Dr. Edward Teller of 11-bomb fame.

And in three to four years, they could rebuild desolated industries, cities, schools, homes. Democratic institutions would function again.

Lingering radiation would be a problem, but not insuperable, he says. The human race would not perish. Nor would future generations be destined to be born misshapen monsters.

Dr. Teller is convinced this country and other nations could survive despite the "doomsday" fear which grips and paralyzes millions of people in the face of nuclear war.

Indeed, he regards this attitude and lack of defense as a temptation for a well-prepared nation to launch thermonuclear war.

It is an invitation to panic and wholesale, needless loss of life if bombs ever fall, says the famous physicist of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory of the University of California.

Three steps could create the defense for insurance against war, or for national survival if it comes. Dr. Teller said in an interview challenging many general conceptions:

1. Building shelters against fallout and against the blast and fire from nuclear bombs.
2. Stockpiling surplus food, machinery, machine tools, generators, building materials—the essentials to generate power, start factories, build more machines, transport people and goods, and assure communications.
3. Planning organized efforts to carry people through the terrible early days, and the hard, demanding, cooperative labor to rebuild modern civilization.

It would cost billions of dollars, perhaps an average of $4 billions for some years, Dr. Teller says.

"A first step could be simply to distribute our surplus foods to strategic places throughout the country. This could be done in half a year.

"I believe the Russians will be more likely to attack if we are not prepared."

Dr. Teller warns the time is short.

Soviet resumption of nuclear testing is frightening, he says. For it could mean the Soviets have been testing new weapons secretly underground in the past two or three years, and have decided to make open tests simply to answer some final questions.

The Soviets knew open testing would force or irritate the United States into more testing, and arouse adverse opinion.

But an edge won through secret testing could mean they are so far ahead in weaponry they don't care what we do."

Dr. Teller says "if we don't prepare, 100 million Americans could die in the first days of an all-out war. Thirty to forty millions more could die from starvation and disease. The United States would cease to exist."

"But I firmly believe 90 per cent of our population could be saved. It means 20 million would die, and this is terrible to contemplate. But why not try to give 90 per cent a decent chance for survival?"

Nuclear war "would be one of the most horrible things imaginable, and everything should be done to prevent it."

But, he adds, he is dismayed by "those who say that a nuclear war necessarily means the end of everything."

"The fear of radiation is much greater than it deserves to be. It is not true that radiation, even from an all-out war, would destroy all forms of life.

"And it is simply not true that if war came, everything is hopeless.

"We can prepare."

Next: Shelters, stockpiles, and civil defense—

Another Red Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has touched off another nuclear blast in the atmosphere—the seventh since it resumed testing 13 days ago.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the blast had the force of several million tons of TNT.

The test early Tuesday was in the air above the arctic island of Novaya Zemlya—the third test in that area since Sunday. The explosion matched the largest in the current series.

Things a Poet Gets Tired of Hearing

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks of a young poet gets tired of hearing: "If you ask me, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow said it all."

"How do you guys get paid—by the line or by the rhyme?"

"Could you knock off a couple of funny stanzas about my cousin and his wife? They're celebrating their 10th wedding anniversary next week and, just for laughs, I'd like to have something comic to surprise them on the occasion."

"There's nothing in the mail, dear, except three more rejection slips."

"In a way he's like Western Union—full of messages for mankind. The difference is that Western Union knows where to deliver them."

"I understand he's a standing writer for the fellow who writes those highway shave jingles."

"You couldn't exactly call Algeron a mute, inglorious Milton. For one thing he isn't mute—unfortunately."

"They tell me you're a poet, young fellow. That's nice. What do you do for a living?"

"I'm leaving you, Algeron, and going home to mother. No, it's not because I'm mad at you. But at mother's I can at least be sure of eating."

"Algeron kind of reminds me of Alfred Tennyson, particularly when he runs out of razor blades and doesn't shave for a month or two."

"I didn't actually say he doesn't have ability. All I said was his lack of inspiration barely rises above his lack of perspiration."

"He really hasn't published anything noteworthy ever since that mimeograph machine broke down in the office where his sister works."

"Algeron isn't proud. He'd be glad to write for the little magazine."

Dr. Teller says "if we don't prepare, 100 million Americans could die in the first days of an all-out war. Thirty to forty millions more could die from starvation and disease. The United States would cease to exist."

"But I firmly believe 90 per cent of our population could be saved. It means 20 million would die, and this is terrible to contemplate. But why not try to give 90 per cent a decent chance for survival?"

Nuclear war "would be one of the most horrible things imaginable, and everything should be done to prevent it."

But, he adds, he is dismayed by "those who say that a nuclear war necessarily means the end of everything."

"The fear of radiation is much greater than it deserves to be. It is not true that radiation, even from an all-out war, would destroy all forms of life.

"And it is simply not true that if war came, everything is hopeless.

"We can prepare."

Another Red Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has touched off another nuclear blast in the atmosphere—the seventh since it resumed testing 13 days ago.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the blast had the force of several million tons of TNT.

The test early Tuesday was in the air above the arctic island of Novaya Zemlya—the third test in that area since Sunday. The explosion matched the largest in the current series.
